history
lives
in the cracks
of bricks
and mortar,
in the roots,
the branches,
the leaves.

cycling
through the seasons
looking beneath
the surface
i find
stories
in old postcards
where trolleys
once transported
people
above
underground
streams

the future
lives in the hearts
and minds
of dreamers
and believers
who travel
the buried
tracks
above the
hidden streams,
forging
a new path
